

Name: _____ Date: _____

1 Why do you think the writer has chosen to call the characters A and B, rather than using names for them?

2 What aspects of the snowy weather does Character A find exciting?

3 What aspects of the snowy weather does Character B not like?

4 Which one aspect of the weather is Character B pleased about?

5 Choose Character A or Character B. What do you think your chosen character is like? Write a short description.

Notes for teachers

Ensure that the children understand that this passage is the script for a short play. If possible the children could act out the play, taking turns to be Character A or Character B, who, as they are not named, can be acted by boys or girls. Do they remember to write in complete sentences, using appropriate punctuation?
